The national welfare sacrificed to the petty ambitions of scheming politicians, the country faces serious injury today by the distressing murder of the deficiency bill by a group of senatorial demagogues who prefer the repudiation of the financial obligations of the government to the abatement of their own vain glorious pride and personal interest. What the Senate needs is not new rules but a new personnel.

REMAINS A MYSTERY

Report of Tellez Recall Un-Lauded by President.

Coincident with widespread speculation concerning the latest corre spondence between the State Department here and the Mexican govern ment regarding the mysterious departure of Senor Don Manuel C. Tellez, the Mexican Ambassador, President Coollidge made it known yesterday that the basic question of confiscation of "A man can have either the best time or the worst time as Speaker of the House of Representatives," he said with difficulty. "I have had the best time." There was the suggestion of a slap at the Senate when he said:

the crux of the situation.

Incidental and collateral questions which have cropped up are to be regarded as the outgrowths of the main issue, the White House spokesman explained. If the fundamental question is adjusted, he added, the other questions will adjust themselves.

Mr. Coolidge made his position known through his spokesman in response to many inquiries as to the significance of latest exchanges between the two governments, accompanied as they appear to be by the unusual the two governments, accompanied as they appear to be by the unusual movements of the Mexican Ambassa-

Joseph C. Grew, Undersecretary of tate, conferred briefly with the Presicame in and music was lifted to the high ceiling as if in process of scouring the recesses of all lurking mean words, of the epithets, of the ili-tempered manifestations of men in debate.

And then came Mme. Luella Melius, the famous American coloratura, brought here by the Washington Opera company, escorted by Representative Fred Britten, of Illinois. She was placed upon a table on which the House clerks had worked, to lift her voice in "The Last Rose of Summer." It is doubtful if ever the body had been so quiet or so packed and jammed before. The galleries were solid with the multi-colored raiment of men and women and hundreds of women nouncement. Mr. Grew is understood to be particularly desirous that nothing definite be stated at this time relative to the latest American communications to Mexico City. But the White House statement clearly indicated that Mr. Coolidge regards these as merely incidental to the big question of whether or not Mexico will insist upon carrying out her confiscation policy against American properties.

Apparently the question of arbitrating the Calles confiscation policy is making no headway, despite the Senate resolution advocating this course and despite the fact that the United States government is taking up with Mexico the question of extending the life of the mixed-claims commission, which nouncement. Mr. Grew is understood the mixed-claims commission, which went into effect September 8, 1923, and when the partings and good-bys carried sharp pangs, doubly keen in the kincovedge that some of the members were not coming back.

The demonstration that was accorded Mme Melius forced her to respond with "Annie Laurie." She has come to Washington to sing in the all-American cast to give "Rigoletto" at the auditorium tonight.

But there were songs before and after she had gone. Representative Woodrum, of Virginia, took to the Washington to sing in the all-American cast to give "Rigoletto" at the auditorium tonight.

But there were songs before and after she had gone. Representative Woodrum, of Virginia, took to the table as master of ceremonies. He sang "Mother Machree" and "The End of a Perfect Day," accompanied by Mrs. Carl Chindblom, wife of the representative from Illinois, at a plano which had been brought in.

Then the House and the galleries foliated in singing, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," "My Old Kentucky Home," and anything that came to permit without protest an or-ganized campaign of antiadministrative from Illinois, at a plano which hat been brought in.

Before it was all over, "Frenchie," the barber, was brought in to give one of those old crooning melodies, a rhythmic yearning from somewhere far-away. The press gallery was called upon for a song and it responded with about the only thing it knows, "How Dry I Am." Its rendition was so good, however, that Mr. Britten yelled up that the scribes sang better than they wrote.

The House made much merriment of the messages that came over from the Senate during the morning. They told of the passage of minor bills, but as the Senate messenger augustly gave his little set speech, he was greeted by cheers and applause.

"Mr. Speaker." he announced, "I am directed to inform the House of Representatives that the Senate has passed H. R. 7711, a bill granting relief to a ferryboat operator in the State of New York."

"Hooray, hooray," the members yelled and applauded. And so they greeted him every time.

Majority Leader Tilson sent his proteges and those on the minority side away with commendation for a work well done. He had received the utmost cooperation from the members of his own party, he said, and no obstructive tactics had been engaged in by the minority party.

Thirty-eight presidential nominations, including two for the newly created radio commission, were still without the stamp of Senate approval when Congress adjourned.

The radio appointments of O. H. Caldwell, of New York, and H. A. Bellows, of Minnesots, died in the Senate interstate commerce committee when, a short while before adjournment, it refused to take action. They will go over "without prejudice" to the next session.

In the meanwhile, it is expected that President Coolidge will fill the two vacancies with recess appointments, probably designating Caldwell and Bellows. Three members, forming a majority of the commission, have been confirmed and it can function, but is without funds, due to the Senate's failure to pass the deficiency bill, carrying an appropriation for its maintenance.

COOLIDGE WILL NOT SEEK SPECIAL CONGRESS SESSION

In his extremity he advanced across the asile for a personal appeal to Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, only to be rebuffed.

Reed Makes Offer.

There somehow was more human sincerity in what was done as the hour of 12 approached, although the conflict was not lessened. Forces which had battled for political advantage up to that time, saying for the record words that were forgotten and were not in the balance off the floor, sought earnestly to perfect at least the understanding of the night that the second defleator had been declared advantage up to the said by no one to contain the hint of trickery.

The forces which the previous battle had set in motion could not, however, be so easily stilled and time was too short to construct those dovetailed structures which by compromise here and there lead to political and legislative shamed.

As far as the record shows all but four senators, Burton K. Wheeler, of Montans; Samuel M. Shortride, of California, and Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, wanted an opportunity to vote on the deficiency bill, but lacking unanimity the Senate could not act. It could only remain in that state of legislative stagnation in which it had been so long, get through a few conference reports, clear the name of Arthur R. Gould, of Maine, of the accusation that he was not fit to be a senator, receive the report of the committee on privileges and elections that the cendentials of William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, and Frank L. Smith, of flassistive sweet of the committee on privileges and elections that the credentials of William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, and Frank L. Then conscious apparently of its own futility the Senate settled back to wait for the hour of 12 o'clock and to listen to final political outbursts and harangues from Senator Pat Harrison, of Mississippi, and Senator M. M. Neely, of West Virginia.

The period came from the Vice President, through his few terse remarks and from his gavel. He had shown throughout the fillbuster that his convictions were with those who sought and from his gavel. He had shown throughout the filibuster that his convictions were with those who sought to break the deadlock. Once yesterday he almost succeeded in getting the deficiency bill through singlehanded. He had, in fact, registered the approval of the Senate when loud and almost universal remonstrances caused him to rescind thet action and place it back on the calendar.

He spoke, therefore, with much more heat than he usually employs when he cut Senator Harrison short at the end of a sentence just before the time of a sentence just before the time of adjournment.

"It is customary," he said, "for the Vice President at the beginning and ending of the Congress to address the Senate upon an appropriate subject. Comments the chair has to make on this occasion will be very brief.

"The chair regards the present legislative situation as primarily due to defective rules of the Senate, under which a minority can prevent a majority from exercising their constitutional right of messages from the House, delivered a messages from the House, delivered a sective the House, delivered as head received from the President to a request gration law.

"It is the only great parliamentary body in the world where such a situation exists. On this closing day of the Sixty-ninth Congress the chair commends to the Senate the remarks upon the Senate rules which he made the first day of the first session."

Tattered Look Lost.

"In the investigation, "and let the resolution pass, we will get through all our business here in a hurry."

"Will the senator include Tennessee?" countered Senator Phipps.

"I move that my resolution be modified," interrupted Senator Reed. of Missouri, "to cover Pennsylvania, Illinois, Colorado and Tennessee and ask unanimous consent that it be voted on at

Tattered Look Lost.

The Senate chamber and its occupants had lost the tattered and torn look of previous days when the deliberations began at 8:30 o'clock. As soon as a quorum had been established Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, asked for unanimous consent for the consideration of the second deficiency bill.

"And that immediately thereafter," interrupted Senator Reed, of Missouri, "the Senate vote on resolution 364."

"I object," said Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, for the resolution of which the Missourian spoke by number was the root cause of the fillibuster, the "slush fund" inquiry.

"I understand," said Senator Charles Curtis, of Kansas, "that the senator from Missouri objects if his amendment is not accepted?

"Certainly," was the reply.

Anxious members got before the Senate a few minor conference reports, which the Vice President ruled privileged, and obtained their passage.

Then Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, moved to take up the Prosident's veto of the farm hill and within the vice for the general properties.

which the Vice President ruled privileged, and obtained their passage.

Then Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, moved to take up the President's veto of the farm bill, and within 10 minutes there was a parliamentary tangle placing six motions ahead of the Reed resolution, still the Senate's unfinished business, and by the same token in exactly similar status even now. There was a motion to table the Reed motion, a point of order on the baling motion, an adverse ruling from the chair on the point of order, an appeal from the chair's decision, and a motion to table that appeal.

The Senate voted on the final question, and, by 31 to 30, refused to table and then indulged in a verbal encounter over the farm question in which Senator Robinson, of Arkansas; Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania; Senator McMaster and Senator Caraway took part. The latter offered to propose an investigation of Arkansas; electoral conditions and make his Pennsylvania colleague a committee of one to conduct the inquiry.

Proposes Unanimous Consent.

Proposes Unanimous Consent.

Finally some of the parliamentary mattresses that covered the veto message and Reed resolution were removed by their authors, but before vote could be had on the presidential disapproval a unanimous consent that a vote be had on the second deficiency bill.

Inquiry developed that he would give 30 minutes for debate on the bill and all amendments, and Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, then objected on the ground that the Reed resolution might be offered as an amendment under such a proposal.

An appeal by Senator Warren, seconded by Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, that the Reed resolution be not offered drew the fire of Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, who refused to be a constant of the present.

"I don't propose," he said, "to be lashed by a minority. I don't intend to have a fillbuster composed of three men lash me for three days and then try to make me abandon all my judgment. I demand that we adjourn at 12 o'clock and the President call an extra session. I congratulate the senator from Pennsylvariis and the senator from New Hampshire in making you yield. I, however, demand the right of two-thirds of this body to act and money will not make me change my mind."

Later, when Senator Warren tried once more to get the bill up he said:
"Because I am for liberty first and appropriations next, I am going to object. I object to this and every other measure. I don't propose to be lashed by Pennsylvania and New Hampshire. I intend to see whether this is to be a legislative body."

The Vice President could not resist this opportunity.

Senator Glass at one point offered a consent agreement to vote on the deficiency bill and the public buildings bill in the space of half an hour, but could not get it through.

Senator M. M. Neely, plentifully interrupted by conference reports and messages from the House, delivered a speech assailing the reply he had received from the President to a request for statistics dealing with the immi-

An appeal by Senator Warren, seconded by Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, that the Reed resolution be not offered drew the fire of Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, who refused to be a party to such an agreement.

Senator Reed, of Missouri, offered next an agreement to vote on the bill and all committee amendments, which was objected to by Senator Blease because a $50,000 appropriation for South Carolina was not in the measure.

The Missouri member went still further, attempting evidently to keep to the statement he had made the night before that the deficiency bill would be passed. He suggested that a vote be taken on the bill as printed and Senators Shortridge and Wheeler objected almost simultaneously.

It was then that Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, announced his opposition.

"I don't propose," he said, "to be the closing hours in the Senate yesterday sides indulged in filibustering. It was burst of politics. The accusations "hurled" and forth hurt nobody, and even the e rules emerged without fatalities. The not of the filibuster conducted by Messrs. d, of Pennsylvania, and Moses, of New pshire, was the defeat of the "slush fund" ution without a vote, and the net result le last-minute Democratic filibuster was efeat of the second deficiency bill, the operty bill, the public buildings bill, medicinal spirits bill and other important

ILIBUSTERS AND SLUSH.

The last-minute Democratic filibuster was uch more injurious to the public interest than the Reed-Moses filibuster.

Vice President Dawes did not overlook the opportunity to point a moral in declaring the Senate adjourned. He still hopes to bring about a change of the Senate rules. But in view of the fact that both parties find it advantageous occasionally to utilize the rules to embarrass the opposition, it may be a long time before the reform will be accomplished. Of course the rules should be amended in order permit a majority, or at any rate twothirds, of the Senate to transact business. The cloture rule, however, has been found effective except in the closing hours.

Thus Gen. Dawes' proposed reform narrows down to a proposition to prevent senators from enjoying a pleasant little filibuster in celebration of their long association together. If they should adopt the reform the parties could not indulge quite so freely in the practice of putting each other in the hole; and what would the succeeding campaign be worth if nobody was in a hole?

Senator "Jim" Reed made little conceal ent of the true purpose of the "slush fund" investigation, which was to develop and ventiate Republican scandals exclusively. When it was suggested that the investigation be car-ried into Southern States, so that the scandals might be equitably divided between the two great parties, the spokesmen of the South denounced the proposal as an attempt to divert attention from Illinois and Pennsylvania.

The truth is that there is scandal enough for all. If the Reed committee should conclude that it is empowered to continue its labors-and apparently its decision would not be subject to appeal to any earthly tribunalit should proceed impartially and thoroughly to snoop into the electoral machinery and practices of every State from Maine to California. Every State has two senators except Illinois and perhaps Pennsylvania. Something suspicious can be found in every case if the ommittee is diligent. Let the inquiry be thorough and strictly nonpartisan!

BRITISH WOMEN AND THE VOTE.

The spectacularly violent methods employed the militant British suffragettes a few years ago won for their sex a victory, which re orthodox forms of agitation might not have so easily or so speedily secured. It was, however, only a partial, not a complete, victory. The vote at parliamentary elections was conferred only on women who are 30 years of age and upward. As every man automatically eeds to the right to vote as soon as he attains the age of 21, it is evident that there is sex discrimination. From the first the women have protested that in this matter they were not fairly treated. Time and again they have ade efforts to have the inequality removed, but always they met with disappointment and

They have, however, never ceased to try, and they never have failed to find a male champion who was willing to introduce in the house of commons a bill to give women the ballot on the same terms as men. Such a measure is now before parliament, but the press of public business is so great that its ances of coming up for consideration and discussion are not exactly roseate. If it were made the order of the day, there is a general feeling that it would be quickly enacted law. Sensing the situation, a large numof determined women campaigners de nded on the house of commons on Thursday ast, to demand that the government grant lities for the immediate bringing forward of the equal suffrage bill. They were not allowed to enter the lobby en masse, but were admitted in groups of 25. Once inside, they ceeded to buttonhole and heckle such memers of parliament as they casually came across could, by strongly worded messages, induce leave the sacred precincts of the chamber per. The result, however, was discourage for even the members friendliest to the could hold out no hope for action before he Easter recess.

from the women's point of view, the matter erious, for there are hundreds of thousands them, perhaps millions, who are at present onfranchised, and who therefore, in the ab e of the necessary legislation, will be unto vote at the next parliamentary gen-

The women argue rightly that, if boys of 21 are capable of exercising the ballot with due judgment, so, a fortiori, are girls of the same age, for a girl of 21 is much more of a woman than a boy of 21 is of a man.

It is quite on the cards that, in order to carry their point, the women may be forced to abandon the more decorous and polite ways of canvassing, and be driven to adopt the heroic, if undignified, arts of campaigning adopted by their predecessors which, however deplorable at least had the merit of producing results. Mutterings to that effect are already making themselves heard, and there are not wanting bold spirits among the women agitators who are willing and able to translate threats into action.

FEDERAL BUILDINGS.

While a feeling of disappointment over the failure of Congress to provide for the acquisition of the "Mall triangle" is keen among the citizens who hoped to see a start made this year toward the beautification of that area, the fact remains that funds are available for work on some of the buildings included in the larger plan.

All the property between Thirteenth and Fourteenth streets, Pennsylvania avenue and the Monument grounds was purchased by the United States several years ago, and in the deficiency bill which was approved last July funds were provided with which the supervising architect can proceed with some of the buildings authorized. But the general public building bill, which failed on account of the filibuster in the Senate yesterday, carried $2,275,000 for building in Washington as well as an increase in the limit of cost for the Commerce Department building from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000. The result of that failure is that nothing whatever can be done before next year toward the construction of this muchneeded building.

The supervising architect must now outline his program of work for the current year. Conferences will be held among the technical officers of the architect's office and the officials of the Treasury who have direct supervision of the work of the architects and engineers to evolve a program, necessarily a revision of that which had been planned upon the assumption that the building bill, which everybody wanted, would have been enacted.

Until that conference decides on a course of action nothing can be said as to governmental building activities in the Capital during the coming summer. They will not be as extensive as seemed probable a few days ago.

DISPLAYING THE FLAG.

Acting on complaints that the American flag was displayed at few if any local schools on Washington's birthday, the Daughters of the American Revolution have prepared a letter of protest to be forwarded to the school board requesting that in the future the flag be flown on all public holidays commemorative of patriotic events. Visitors to the city were the first to notice the omission of February 22.

It is a pity that a matter of this sort should have to be made the subject of public protest for the flag should be inseparably a part of all school equipment, not only to be flown on patriotic holidays but on every other day as well. To the vast majority of the people the schools represent civic authority as much as any other institution. As such they should lead the way in all matters patriotic, particularly in the display of the national emblem. The school system is peculiarly American, and should be so identified. The flag should be raised each and every morning, weather permitting, and should fly in the breezes at least until school is dismissed.

ARBORETUM AND BOTANIC GARDEN.

One of the very last acts of Congress to receive the approval of President Coolidge was that which authorizes the establishment of a national arboretum on Mount Hamilton, near the District-Maryland line. Like the Botanic garden transfer, which received executive approval several weeks ago, no funds were provided with which the object aimed at can he carried into effect. In the case of the authorized removal and extension of the Botanic garden, funds were provided in the second deficiency bill, and it was expected that like action would be taken with reference to the arboretum. But this bill died in the filibuster on the last day of the session.

There will be no progress made during the summer toward the creation of an arboretum in the District, and nothing can be done in the way of buying the two squares to be purchased on which to recrect the Bartholdi statue and the conservatories of the Botanic garden. The latter project is safe, although the delay is unfortunate. But already 10 per cent of the land which it was desired to purchase for the arboretum has been acquired by builders, and it is feared that the owners of the remaining acreage will endeavor to sell their holdings to other purchasers. The arboretum project, in that event, may never be carried out.

REGULATING RADIO.

In the closing hours of the session the Sen ate confirmed three of the members of the newly appointed radio control commission, and failed to act upon O. H. Caldwell, Republican, of New York, and H. A. Bellows, Democrat, of Minnesota, appointed for the five-year and three-year terms, respectively. In all probability the President now will make recess appointnents to complete the body. Should he not. however, the commission still can organize and function.

Unfortunately the appropriation for the commission, contained in the second deficiency bill, failed of passage. The commission, therefore, has no funds and a considerable doubt has been raised as to how it can organize and function. The Department of Commerce, however, undoubtedly will be able to furnish office room and supplies, and by stretching a point should be able to furnish stenographers and clerks secure in the knowledge that the lack of funds was not intentional, and that reimbursement will be made by the next Congress. No time should be lost in effecting the organization. More than 725 stations are on the air at the present time, with only 89 available wave bands within the permitted limits for broadcasting. In addition to straightenelection, which is expected to take place | ing out this tangle the commission must aswe years hence and may be held much earlier. sume control of all other stations, and must for fear the other won't.

existence turn back actual control to the department. This is little enough time to complete a hard task, and the inception of work must not be delayed.

MR. SARGENT WANTS TO KNOW.

The excessive liberality of a commissioner appointed by the court to assess the damage to a vessel that was in collision with one of the navy's destroyers has led the Department of Justice to ask the Circuit Court of Appeals to review the findings of the commissioner and to reduce the award. From an outline of the brief prepared by the department it would appear that the United States has a better case than usual.

In August, 1918, the collision between the destroyer Bell and a lighter named the Cornelia occurred in Boston harbor. The court of appeals for the first circuit, which embraces Massachusetts, to which the case was eventually carried found that both vessels were equally blamable and therefore ordered that the damages be divided. The case went back to a commissioner for the purpose of assessing damages. It appears from the record that the owners abandoned the wreck soon after the collision took place and that they made no attempt to salvage their property. Subsequently the wreck was sold for $5,000, and subse quently raised and resold at a substantial profit. The commissioner appointed by the court decided that the total damages should be appraised at $96,084 and that the owner the Cornelia were entitled to recover $45,542, less the sum for which they sold the wreck.

In view of the fact that the owners them selves testified that the value of the vessel was only $90,000, the Department of Justice very naturally desires to know just how the commissioner reached the conclusion that the ship was worth $6,084 more than the owners claimed.

THE UTILITIES COMMISSION.

It is to be hoped that a way will be found o organize the new public utilities commission without undue delay. Because of the close scrutiny given the body by the Senate, coupled with the fact that the President studied the qualification of each prospective appointee critically before sending the names up for confirmation, it would seem that an exceptionally capable body has been formed.

At least five major proposals involving practically all the local utility companies are pending. Both gas companies are seeking higher valuations upon which they can base a plea for higher rates. The traction merger problems are still unsolved, Congress having failed to enact a bill proposed by the old commission which would have forced the merger within two years. The District Supreme court recently cleared the way for a telephone company rate hearing. The Washington Rapid Transit Co.'s ownership is still held illegal by the old commission, and the new body will have to solve this question as well as decide upon an appeal for a straight 10-cent fare. Finally, the Washington Railway & Electric Co. is about to seek a higher valuation.

The new body, which has the indorsement and confidence of the general public, has the opportunity to be of great service to the District. It should proceed slowly and cautiously, avoiding the pitfalls which surely will develop, bearing in mind at all times that the public is watching its progress with intense interest.

STUDENT SUICIDES.

The student suicide wave has struck lamentably close home. A Central High school boy has taken his own life in the presence of his playmates and in one of the corridors of the Many persons attribute the wave of student suicides to modern educational methods, claiming that young people are being taught subjects with which their immature intellect is unable to cope. There may be something to the theory, although in the final analysis teaching today is little different than it was five years ago, and the suicide tendency is a very recent development. Others deplore what has come to be known as the "looseness" of youth, to which every unusual tendency is attributed. On the other hand, it does not seem that the girls and boys of this generation are fundamentally different from those of the last. Prohibition, the movies, the teaching of evolution, after effects of the war, automobiles-these and other factors are cited to account for the suicide wave. None of them, however, answers the question fully.

The suicide rate among students is unquestionably on the increase, and there must be an underlying reason. Possibly the cause may be no more fundamental than the age-old desire for notoriety, coupled with instinctive mimicry. One student committed suicide and the story was given wide circulation. Luncheon.

The commission form of government in the District is a failure, and should be supplanted by the city council and city manager plan, Dr. Ellery G. Stowell, president of the Better Government league and professor of international law at American university, told the City club at luncheon yesterday.

Dr. Stowell further asserted that the civil service commission is badly managed, and that employes of the bureau of efficiency spend most of their time. "snooping" about government departments. He declared that Herbert D. Brown, chief of the bureau of efficiency spend most of the trough a plot engineered by Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah.

William G. Deming, president of the board of civil service commissioners, also a guest at the luncheon, answers, the attack on the civil service commissioners, the commissioners of the ciub, defended the efficiency bureau, whose investigations he said are made only at the request of department heads.

Sponsored by Episcopal Laymen and Washington Federation of Churches.

DR. WILFLEY TO SPEAK ON FIRST THREE DAYS

Special Music to Be Provided on Opening Day and on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

The Rev. Earle Wilfley, pastor of Vermont Avenue Christian church, will Experience has shown that a large number of people, especially in the rural districts of Maryland and Virginia, listen in on these services. Reports have come from places as far away as Parkersburg. W. Va., and towns in Pennsylvania equally distant. Those in charge of the services consider this feature to be one of the most important results of the meetings.

The committee in charge of the services, of which Dr. L. W. Glazebrook is chairman, have decided that the 20 minutes allowed each day to the speaker is not sufficient time for the audience to become acquainted with his personality, nor him to thoroughly develop his subject.

It has therefore been decided that the first three days of each week one outstanding minister will be the speakoutstanding minister will be the speak-er with ample opportunity to cover thoroughly the message he has to de-liver. On Thursdays and Fridays the speaker will usually be a layman who, can not give up the time to make more than one address. This rule will not be considered fixed and if circum-stances necessitate more than one speaker will be presented during the first part of the week.

Program for Week. On Monday the Rev. E. C. Beery will onduct the services and Dr. Glazebrook reside. The quartet from the ry Methodist Episcopal church will furnish the music, beginning at 12:25.

On Tuesday the Rev. James T. Marshall will conduct the service and Mr. Page McK. Etchison will preside.

On Wednesday the Rev. R. S. Barnes will conduct the services and Dr. W. J. Showalter will preside.

On Thursday Dr. Howard A. Kelly, of Baltimore, will be the speaker. Dr. Kelly is recognized as one of the country's leading surgeons. He has spoken at the noon-day Lenten services each year. He will also address the audience on March 17. The Rev. E. P. Wroth, rector of Christ church, Georgetown, will conduct the service on Thursday and Dr. W. Sinclair Bowen, president of the Laymen's Service association, will preside. Mrs. Mary Sherier Bowle, soprano, will sing a solo at 12:25.

On Friday the speaker will be Dear W. A. Wilbur, of George Washington university. The Rev. H. W. D. Meilington will conduct the service and Commander C. T. Jewell will preside.

OUR WISH FOR A BETTER WORLD

By REV. ANDREW REID BIRD. Pastor, Church of the Pilgrims.

Every man wishes the world was a better place to live in. Personal comfort suggests it. Consideration of the problems of other people emphasize it. At times, personal experience, or the difficulties of others so impress us that our wish for a better world is intensified into active work to that end.

God's wish to make the world better echoes from every book of the Bible. From the moment when the Spirit of the Lord moved upon the face of the dark waters and created a universe of light and order and beauty, from the word of the angelic messenger, "Behold, I bring you glad tidings of great joy which shall be to all people." we may trace not only God's wish, but may see God working toward a better world. As we listen to Jesus Christ and examine His experience on earth, we discover that the intensity of God's wish for a better world is to be measured not only by His working, but most truly through His suffering.

Every man may well gain heart in helping his wish come true since it is so profoundly God's wish too. Every man may find peace and gladness and abiding usefulness as he works with God for a better world. Suppose we follow through with this good wish of ours. "Greater love hath no man than this." was the musical magnet that drew an audience that filled Poll's theater yesterday afternoon in one of the most notable concerts of a season of brilliant musical events. Mme. Jeritza appeared under the local management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

Program of Prima Donna Provides Full Playfor Her Voice.

The gracious personality and beauty of the prima donna and her dramatic ability gave additional distinction to a program admirably sung. Her vocal ease was apparent at all times and the marvelous range of her golden-toned volce was exemplified in the numbers selected for her concert. They displayed every beauty of her volce, its glorious soaring quality in the altitudes of the soprano range and the mellow velvety softness of her middle volce, unusually round and full for a coloratura soprano, while her deep tones were worthy of a premiere contraito.

The assisting artists were Maximilian Rose, violinist, and Emil Polak: Mr. Rose's tone was lovely and his phrasing and technique artistic. The audience was enthusiastic over his playing and particularly applauded the "Rondo," by Mozart-Kreisler, with a wonderful cadenza beautifully handled and a group of Hungarlan airs by Ernst. delicate and charming in their appeal. Mr. Polak deserves high praise for his artistic accompaniment of Mme. Jeritza in her songs, never obscuring the singer but always a support and a background for her vocal pyrotechnics.

Mme. Jeritza chose for her first number the famous aria, "Il est doux, il est bon," from Massenet's "Herodiade." It proved a happy choice of a vehicle for her art and she won spontaneous applause from an enthusiastic audience.

Mme. Schumann-Heink might have trembled for her laurels in regard to one of her favorite songs had she heard Mme. Jeritza sing Franz Schubert's "Erikonig" with all the passionate abandon of melody that has distinguished the veteran contralto's rendition of this great dramatic ballad. But, as Mme. Schumann-Heink would have said, "There was glory enough for all," and yesterday's singer read new beauty into it without being too reminiscent of the elder mistress of song.

A simple group of songs effectively done followed the intermission and included "Infidelite," by Reynaldo Hahn: "Au Pays," by Augusta Holmes; "Trees," by Oscar Rasbach, and "Spring Dropped a Song Into My Heart," by Beatrice Fenner.

Mme. Jeritza concluded her program with a masterly singing of the Aria "In Questa Reggia," from "Turandot," by

PLACE where local motorists may have their gas A and oil needs attended to both courteously and quickly. The bright, clean surroundings, away from the rush of traffic, will appeal to men and women alike. Genuine "Standard" Motor Fuels and Oils, too-the best obtainable anywhere.

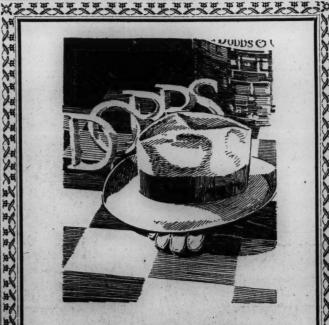

"Standard" Gasoline is right the year round; Esso is the leading premium fuel. "Standard" Motor Oil embodies a new principle in motor lubrication. By "staying put" on metal surfaces regardless of the time the motor has been standing idle, it gives greater protection and means smoother operation for your car. More miles per quart of oil and reduced gasoline bills are two of its many benefits.

Crank case, transmission, differential, and spring lubrication services will be special features at this new station.

Be sure to put it down for an immediate stop.

Former Representative John Philip Hill, of Maryland, whose membership in the House of Representatives terminated with the expiration of the Sixty-Ninth Congress yesterday, announced his admission to the Washington law firm of Howe, Swayze & Bradley, and the resumption of his practice of law in Baltimore.

The Washington firm hereafter will be known as Howe, Hill & Bradley. Borah Will Speak

A NOTHER error must be reported, but this time a typographical one. In the recipe for apple chutney on Thursday, mustard seed was given twice. The first lire of the recipe should read 6 pounds of apples that are firm rather than 6 ounces mustard seed. I feel quite sure that any one attempting to use the recipe would have been at once aware of the absence of apples. One reader spoke of the error when we were talking over the telephone. But I hope sincerely that there has been no difficulty experienced by any one through the "too-much mustard!"

A few days ago a reader sent to me a recipe that she had picked up on the floor of the cooking school. It is written on a slip of white card and is a recipe for Russian dressing. The reader who sent it to me felt that possibly the lady who lost it would wish very much to have it. Therefore, since I can not reach the owner of the card can not reach the owner of the card without her name, I shall print it here and hope that the information reaches the right party. Russian Dressing.

1 cup mayonnaise.
½ cup chili sauce.
1 boiled egg chopped.
¼ cup boiled beets chopped.
1 taplespoon parsley chopped.
1 teaspoon onion juice or grated or minced onion.

A number of cards have recently been sent out from the studio to readers wishing the address of the farmer who makes the maple cream. The young lady who sent out these cards thought that the word was Essey, which is not the case. Anyone finding Essey on their card will please change the word to Essex. This is the only way of reaching these readers of which I know, and hope it reaches all of them.

I am not just sure, Mrs. Kosack, that your cakes prove to be "not any good" only because you do not succeed in getting the butter soft enough in your process of creaming. But I should suggest to you that if you have any doubts in the matter, you cream the butter with your hand first, until it so f a soft light substance, and then that you cream in the sugar gradually, still with your hand and work the whole mass thoroughly before removing your hand to go about adding the rest of the ingredients with the aid of a wooden spoon. We may not all agree with this method of creaming, and yet, many of the very finest cooks in the country find that this method and none other is the path to perfection; or the state of the transfer of the state of the transfer of the country find that this method and none other is the path to perfection; to extend the contraction to the country find that this method and none other is the path to perfect the state of th in the country find that this method and none other is the path to perfection in cake making. It is true that with modern methods we preach proper utensils and much on the subject of sanitary methods. And probably any objection would be one questioning the cleanliness of the method But the hand may be made quite as clean as any implement, and the natural warmth of the hand makes the creaming process quicker and easier. New methods, as new laws, need not exclude the old ones, and certainly no rule can be made that has no exception.

And now before the menu of the day I have one more thing that I wish to take up. It is the waffle party. I think, since we shall have to have at least five such parties to take care of the numbers of ladies who wish to come that we shall combine the two, doing the waffles and the pie crust the same day, as ten separate affairs seems to me to be something of an undertaking. I plan that the first of these affairs will take place on Monday, March 14. The date will be announced on the card that is to be presented at the studio the day of the occasion. And because of the great numbers we are obliged to say that for these particular occasions at least the books are closed. Had we but a little more room we should like to invite the entire community, but as it is I fear our numbers will have to be in a measure limited.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

EAR Viola Paris: Will you please give me some exercises for reduc-ing the abdomen? What can be done to fatten the arms and the calves of the legs and to cover up the bones at the pit of the neck? -This reply will answer several of the questions that I have lately eccived on reducing the abdomen and the stomach, particularly the questions

ed "Fay" and "Susan."
prominent abdomen almost always comes from eating too much, from bad posture and from lack of exercise. The following exercises, if taken regularly every day, will prove helpful:

collowing exercises, if taken regularly every day, will prove helpful:

1. Stand erect and grasp something solid, such as the footboard of the bed or the back of a heavy chair, with the right hand. Swing the left leg slightly forward, at the same time filing the opposite knee without breaking the movement, then bring the left foot up in a brisk kick. Repeat the exercise with the opposite leg.

2. Supporting yourself by resting one hand on something stationary, swing the opposite leg like a pendulum, forward and backward, as high as possible. Turn, and repeat with the opposite leg.

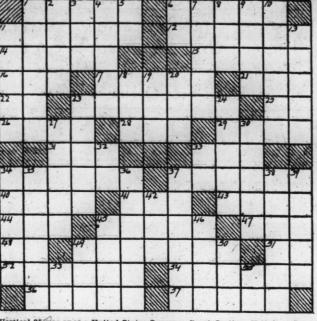

3. Sitting on the floor, spread the legs widely apart. Relax and roll the body forward from the hips, letting the outstretched hands extend straight in front along the floor. Let the head drop forward naturally while doing this.

4. Lying flat on the floor with feet together, bring the feet up and try to touch them to the floor behind the head. Repeat with a rocking movement.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

ANXIETY VS. HOPE DURING ILLNESS

THE author of "This Religion" postulates fear as the underlying basis of all religion. It was fear that caused society to begin. Fear caused the wild, animal man to begin ociating in packs or groups. Recogni-n of his weakness and his fear of associating in packs or groups. Recognition of his weakness and his fear of things stronger than himself and which he could not fathom caused him to evolve religious beliefs and customs based thereon. As heyose in the social scale he overcame his old fears and discarded his old religions. But new fears took the place of the old and new religions were created to fit the new fears. In the history of man there have been a multitude of religions proposed, but none have made any headway except those built around two emotions—fear and its kinsman, hope. Some have had the first of these as the major motive from their beginnings to their endings. Every religion has evolved, has changed to fit the changing needs of those it served. The general trend of this evolution has usually been toward putting fear somewhat in the background and putting hope toward the fore.

There is no question but that fear and hope are important motives in all religions. Every one will agree to that. The only disagreement will be as to the relative importance of these motives as compared with the other basic qualities.

Two members of the crew of the Nova

The schooner, which had driven on a bar a mile off shore in the early morning, was for hours beyond the reach of the coast guardsmen. No boat could live in the sea, and the beach guns could not match that range.

Back went the breeches through the, surf to the side of the stricken research and Mason Bagg stepped into them and was hauled toward safety. He was little more than half way to shore when the three masts toppled and the Montclair broke up rapidly. Bagg received a ducking, but was hauled out safe. Two men were lost at once in the breaking up.

Some of the deck cargo of laths had been tied together by the men and the three others of the crew of seven clung to this fragile raft. They were swept rapidly along the shore, the coast guardsmen following and waiting for an opportunity to reach them. They later disappeared, however.

New York, March 4 (By A. P.).—The first of the New York-bound vessels to arrive after passing through the disturbance on the Atlantic coast Wednesday, put in today with forward skylights on the starboard smashed and seven cabins water soaked.

The vessel was the Munargo, of the Munson Line, whose captain, Thomas Simmonis, reported having encountered 40-foot waves and 90-mile winds. One wave spilled its crest on the ship's upper structure, smashing the skylights. None of the passengers was injured.

FOURTH LIBERTYS ACTIVE

New York, March 4 (By the Associated Press).—Trading in the bond market today was rather colorless, but prices held up well in spite of general inactivity. The session in many respects was a repetition of what had gone before. Buyers continued to sit on the sidelines awaiting developments and sidelines awaiting developments and getting ready for the March tax pay-sidelines awaiting developments and getting ready for the March tax payments.

The principal interest was outside the listed market, centering in talk on negotiations for new issues. Among these were rumors of a new Italian loan, which some believed to be an advance to the government, while others looked for a $30,000,000 issue for the ty of Rome. Progress also was said have been made on the expected ish loan, and a $7,000,000 issue for Bank of East Prussian Land Owners clation was reported almost ready the market.

In the state of the limited demand for listed focused again on such recent as as Granby 7s, Republic Iron & and Brooklyn Union Gas 5½s. Tible railway obligations, which is popular during the past few ere inclined to softness on Eric Convertible D 4s and Delaware & Hudson Convertible 5s were among the backward issues. Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburgh 4½s, on the other hand, were in fair demand, possibly because of expectation of improved conditions as predicted in recent statements by President Noonan.

Extreme listlessness pervaded the foreign issues. Even Polish and Italian securities, buoyant in recent seasions, were inclined to heaviness.

Fairly active accumulation of Fourth Liberty 4½s featured an otherwise duil day in the United States government division.

Prompt oversubscription of the $15,-000,000 Commonwealth Edison Co. 4½ per cent bonds attracted considerable interest, as they were sold on a 4.75 yield basis, which is near the low record for public utility liens.

"Both Maloney and Sharkey have done everything I asked of them," said Rickard today.

Maloney fought his way into the semifinal round of the tournament by licking Jack Delaney in ten rounds several weeks ago. Sharkey's victory last night over Mike McTigue qualified him for a meeting with Shamus.

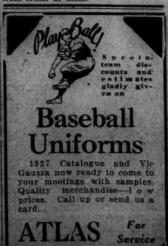

The fighters have had three brushes to date, Maloney winning the first on a decision in ten rounds. Sharkey copped the second on a foul in nine rounds, after being on the floor eight times, and he won the third fight on decision in ten rounds.

Voigt Annexes Hoppe Beaten Devitt Eliminates Western Palm Beach By Grange, Golf Title 400-384

Defeats Shaffer in Finals, 11 and 10.

Long Driving, True Victor Has Run 184; Putting Provide Gallery Thrills.

P ALM BEACH. Fla.. March 4.—
Shooting the best brand of golf that has been seen here in two years, George J. Voigt, star Washington amateur, today won the Palm Beach championship over the Country club layout here. The Capital City player won the scheduled 36-hole final from Harvey Shaffer, of New York, by the overwhelming margin of 11 up and 10 to play. In addition, Voigt overcame golf's most historic tradition that the medal winner can not emerge victorious in the same tournament.

A large gallery followed the finals, but Voigt was the attraction. The Middle Atlantic titleholder, in the face of a high wind, sauntered around the eighteen holes in the morning with a brilliant 35—36—71, two under par., pilling up a lead of ten holes. It was a brief session after luncheon, for Voigt managed to halve five of the eight holes played.

The New York man offered little opposition. Voigt darted into the lead at the outset, taking the first five holes. His driving was tremendous, his average being about 25 yards, and his approaching was perfect, while his putting touch has not been equaled here in several years.

tremendous, his average being about 25 yards, and his approaching was perfect, while his putting touch has not been equaled here in several years.

Voigt sank a number of 10 and 12 foot putts. Shaffer, on the other hand, was erratic, his approach shots being 10 to 15 feet over each time, and he flubbed several seemingly easy putts.

Voigt made only three mistakes during the entire match. He hooked his drive on the sixth pole in the morning, taking a 6, and he carelessly missed 2-foot putts on the thirteenth and twenty-third greens.

A IDED by a run of 184 in the fourth inning of his match with Willie Hoppe, world's titleholder. Felix Grange, of France, champion billiardist of Europe, scored a victory over the American star by a 400-to-384 score in the world's 18.2 balkline billiard tourney at the Arcadia last night.

Grange's average was 30 10-13 for 13 innings, while Hoppe counted 32 per inning for 12 innings. Grange's high run was 184, and Hoppe's 156.

In the afternoon match, Edouard Horemans, champion of Belgium and former world's champion, disposed of Kinrey Matsuyama, Japanese title-holder, 400 to 356. It was the fourth loss for Matsuyama, and Horemans' second win in the tournament.

Today's matches will be Cochran vs. Hagenlacher, two undefeated players, at 2:30, and Schaefer vs. Matsuyama in the evening as the feature of "Japanese night."

The carelessness which has marked Grange's earlier matches was absent in last night's play. Although he exhibited the same daring, executing long draw-shot and masses that stunned the audience, he was slower in execution and deliberated at length before he cued.

The Nipponese looked a certain winner as he started his fourth tournament match, counting 31 in his first inning and 41 in his second. This seemed to unsettle the Belgian champion, who made scores of 0, 11, 5 and 0 in his first four tries. But this trick of losing when he has apparently sewed up the game seems inherent in the diminutive Japanese, who has now lost three matches by weak play in the home stretch.

The all-Washington battle for the right to compete in the semifinals brought out some of the best play of the tournament and two brilliant stars —George Walker, of Western, and "Bark" Barclow, of Devitt.

Walker, one of the smallest players in the tourney, played a marvelous defensive game, being all over the floor, while Barclow accounted for 26 to for the Devitt points, shooting from all angles of the court. His total points was the highest for any single game. Devitt stepped out to a small lead in the first half which Western set out to erase as the game wore on. at his own expense. He has seen having the winter away over in Florida and had done some throwing over there, so his arm was in supple condition and he was ready to go out and throw his swift, as he called it, at once.

He addressed Ray Schalk as Mr. Schalker, which was encouraging, and when William Ananias Buckley, the colored trainer, assembled him a uniform from the remnants about the clubhouse, he asked for a pair of garlers.

This made Mr. Schalk suspect that the new boy was not quite ready for work in the major leagues, because it appears that a well-schooled baft player decen't wear clastics to bind the bottoms of his pants, but aligs the pants on inside out in an ingenious manner and then puckers the bottoms to his culves by a sort of twist and hitch which twines the sox and the pants tegether.

"We find," the foreman said "that the defendant Thomas W. Miller is guilty as charged in the indictment." There was a rustle of excitement in Charges by Government.

Daugherty and Miller were charged with having released $7,000.000 worth of property seized under the trading with the enemy act after having been given scoording to the government. "hypodermic injections of graft" by John T. King, late national Republican committeems from Connecticut

John T. King, late national Republican committeeman from Connecticut.

The property was the proceeds of 48 per cent of the stock of the American Metals Co., owned by two German companies controlled by the Merton family of metal magnates.

Richard Merton came to this country after the world war to seek return of the property through the allen property custodian's office, and retained King to put his claim through the government office. He paid King a fee of 8441,000 and the government charged that part of this money found its way to Baugherty and Miller through the agency of the late Jess W. Smith, Daugherty's political handy man. The Merton claim was passed in 1921.

By the time the government officials were indicated the statue of limitations prevented prosecution for bribery, and so they were charged with conspiracy against the government they served, the period of limitation for conspiracy being six years. They were brought to trial for conspiring to defraud the government of their full and impartial services in permitting passage of the Merton claim.
